

Clean Energy and Economic Development in Underserved Communities

An array options are available that could drive economic development opportunities related to clean energy in low income communities. Our state has massive resource potential in energy efficiency, solar, biomass and offshore wind. This session will explore the regulatory and policy changes that are needed to make these opportunities a reality for South Carolinians.