

Robert Yauckoes, MAOM

Robert is an Acupuncturist and herbalist who earned his Masters of Acupuncture and Oriental Medicine (MAOM) at the New England School of Acupuncture.

Robert strongly believes that Chinese medicine can improve the health and well being of local communities. He founded Acupuncture Connections to provide the highest quality of acupuncture that is also affordable and accessible to those who seek treatment. Acupuncture Connections is a result of his belief in giving back to the community that has given so much to him and his family. He practices in the Framingham office where his passion for providing affordable group acupuncture began.

Robert grew up in Stow, MA and after living overseas for many years, he returned to back to New England. During his spare time he enjoys being a dad and a husband and looking for adventure in the area. If not on a trail or practicing martial arts, you can find Robert in a local coffee shop or listening to music.
