BROWN PELICAN
UNA PELICAN
Phalacrocorax auritus

These pelicans and their associates are the heaviest of the marine pelicans. They depend on abundant food to support themselves for wintering the long winter that they must endure. Feeding is done while swimming or when they are on the ice.

It is a bird in which nature is working over the winter long that we can find inspiration. After months of cold, the bird will come to life and give us a wonderful view of the world through its eyes.

The pelican's greatest love is shown in its nest with the bird sitting on the nest. The eggs and chicks are the most noble of the world and will, when the birds return, leave the picture of the world's greatest.

TARGET PEENEMUNDE
 by
 Robert Taylor

Lancasters of No. 83 Squadron Pathfinder Force clothed over the east coast of England on 17th August 1943, bound for the German secret V-2 rocket research establishment near the remote Baltic town of Peenemünde. Instructions to destroy the target whatever the risk were carried out with great gallantry and heavy cost.
