

Contemporary Rural Social Work

A collaboration between the National Rural Social Work Caucus and The Center for Rural Education and Communities in the College of Education and Human Development at the University of North Dakota

ABOUT THE JOURNAL

Contemporary Rural Social Work is devoted to the development of knowledge about rural social work and to the promotion of excellence in rural practice. The journal provides a forum for the intellectual exchange of ideas that advance these purposes. Feature articles published in the journal are abstracted in Social Work Abstracts.

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

Deadline: January 15, 2015

Contemporary Rural Social Work publishes 1 regular volume per year. The submission deadline is January 15 each year with a publication date of August the same year.

Please submit manuscripts via the link below.

Contemporary Rural Social Work
www.und.edu/crsw

If you have questions, please contact Amy Phillips, Managing Editor, at amy.phillips@minotstateu.edu.

CRSW welcomes submissions in the following categories:

- ◆ Feature Articles
- ◆ Practice Notes
- ◆ Teaching Notes
- ◆ Book Reviews
- ◆ Poetry

Please see the journal's website, www.und.edu/crsw, for details about each of these categories.

All manuscripts should be submitted directly via the website

Contemporary Rural Social Work

www.und.edu/crsw

National Rural Social Work Caucus

<http://www.ruralsocialwork.org/>