O'Connell's Cardigan Sweaters

Cardigans- not just for Grandpa anymore

Men are spoiled this time of year. Form and function pamper men, while women suffer for fashion. Come autumn no better example exists than the cardigan sweater. Wear it over a t-shirt or with a sportshirt or under a sportcoat and you'll look cool, even smart, without necessarily trying to be either. Cardigans come in hefty wool, the better to protect you from nature's wrath or a velvety lambswool, a buttery soft indulgence. They can be oversized and chunky or trim and modern. There are all shapes and sizes and weights and thread counts. Like we said: spoiled. Our favorites of the season right this way...

Inverness Raincoat

Our “Inverness” overcoat is a raincoat with classic pedigree. Perfectly representative of Scottish Balmacaan design and expertly made in Schneider’s Austrian workrooms, this is the quintessential raincoat. The high count cotton exterior provides waterproof comfort (with the exterior cotton fabric so tightly woven that it appears iridescent.) Warmth is provided by a button-in removable lining. The british tan coat is tastefully lined with a heathered carbon/brown wool and the navy with burgundy. Both coats feature a wool under collar that matches the lining fabric. $995

O’Connell’s Whipcord Suit

Sartorial sophistication best describes our whipcord wool suit. Country gentleman’s suit, or weekend wear, or business casual attire - however we categorize this garment it evokes a certain genteel - nature representing a departure from strict business formality. This is a suit styled perfectly for its role. Quarter stitching, hook vent, bone buttons, and made from a hard finish, wrinkle resistant, all-wool olive-tan whipcord fabric. Make the suit a three piece garment by adding the optional vest. As with all O’Connell’s suits - 3 button, natural shoulder and straight front trousers are standard. Tailored in Canada.

Harris Tweed Sport Coats by Southwick

Our collection of Harris Tweed sportcoats tailored by Southwick has expanded with the addition of two new garments- a heavy 16 oz. charcoal blue herringbone and a 13 oz. heather brown herringbone with a distinctive sky blue and rust accent color. See the entire collection at oconnellsclothing.com

Magee Tweed Donegal Sportcoat

Donegal tweed is a hand woven tweed fabric manufactured in County Donegal, Ireland. Like the Outer Hebrides, County Donegal has for centuries been producing tweed from local materials. Sheep thrive in the hills and bogs of County Donegal and indigenous plants such as blackberries, fuchsia, and moss provide dyes. Towards the end of the 18th century the Royal Linen Manufacturers of Ulster distributed approximately six thousand flax wheels for spinning wool to the region to grow the industry.

For many years Donegal tweed has commonly referred to a visually distinctive “salt and pepper” tweed design that features two primary light and dark shades. (eg. black or navy along with white or beige) and a limitless variety of pin dot accent colors.

Our newest Donegal tweed produced by Magee of Donegal is charcoal and white with strong plum undertones. Other accent colors include red, bottle green, fuchsia, maize yellow, and orange.
