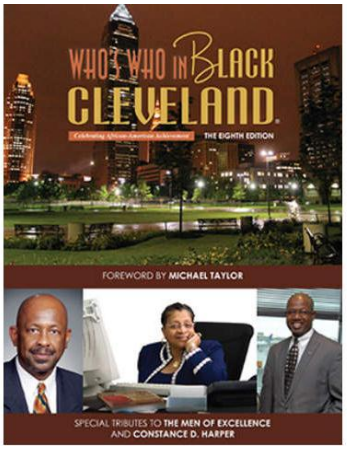
Tri-C Cuyahoga Community College Community Connection E-Newsletter

Multiple Tri-C Employees and Students featured in Who's Who in Black Cleveland

Mr. Kenneth Hale, executive director of Early College and Outreach Programs, Ms. Stacy Hutchinson, principal of High Tech Academy (HTA), Dr. Ormond Brathwaite, chemistry professor, and, Dr. Valerie Brown, sociology professor were recently recognized and profiled in the 2013 Edition of Who's Who in Black Cleveland, a publication that celebrates African-American achievement in Northeast Ohio.

Also profiled were five High Tech Academy (HTA) scholars, Rashee Brooks, Sophia Higginbottom, Celeste Kamasa, Marshay Wilson and Vic Young, and two HTA alumni, Melvin Hamilton and Nathan Johnson.



High Tech Academy (HTA) is a dual enrollment program in which high school students in the Cleveland Metropolitan and Warrensville Heights School Districts attend half a day of school in their home school and then attend classes on the Tri-C campuses. Learn more here.

Learn more about Who's Who in Black Cleveland in a recent news article below:
'Who's Who in Black Cleveland' celebrates African-American achievement in the Cleveland area
newsnet5 Cleveland – November 20, 2013