

Lutheran-Anglican-Roman Catholic day of Dialogue

A Pastoral Approach to Interreligious Marriage

Monday, October 28, 2013

Cardinal Keeler Center
4800 Union Deposit Road
Harrisburg, PA 17111

For Christian clergy and laity, either as parents or mentors, ministry to a couple preparing for or living in a marriage when one partner is a Christian and the other comes from another religious tradition involves the often difficult task of “speaking the truth with charity”. This is especially necessary in a culture in which the prevailing trend is to view “all religions as the same”. Guided by the insights of a nationally recognized expert in interreligious marriage from the Roman Catholic perspective, this year’s LARC day of dialogue will address the various theological, pastoral, spiritual and canonical issues that are unique to these marriages.

The day begins at 9:00 AM and ends at 3:00 PM. Lunch will be provided.

Rev. Leo Walsh, STD

Ecumenical and Interreligious Officer, Archdiocese of Anchorage, AK
