

Aphasiatoolbox Newsletter - November 2013 Survey Results - Speech Language Pathologists

Questions # 11 and 12 are specifically targeted to Speech Language Pathologists.

11. As an SLP, what would you find most likely to help you enhance your aphasia practice?

more tools and ideas for aphasia treatment	83.8%
more tools and ideas to better exploit neuroplasticity	67.6%
more CEU events online	45.5%
information on how to become a BCAT certified SLP	41.1%
more opportunities for my clients to participate in groups online	33.8%
more CEU events in my geographic area	32.3%
an intensive aphasia referral program for my clients	30.8%
better referral resources for my discharged clients	27.9%
more information on Telepractice	19.1%
more tools for use in my Telepractice	8.8%
Other	2.9%

12. We learn much from the Speech Language Pathologists in our social therapeutic network. We encourage you to share any of your ideas or comments in the Comment box below.

Comments

> There have been so many misconceptions about aphasia; things I used to believe but no longer do. The people in my group are doing so wonderfully well and many are 10 years post. The one thing they have in common is that they continue to live life as fully as possible. That's not in any SLP assessment form but it's a huge contributor to happiness! CC

> The speech therapy funding for our patients at Tampa General Rehab Center is noticeably less this year, and probably will be worse in 2014. I am referring patients and their family to the aphasia toolbox website. ND

>If anyone has any information on forming aphasia groups I would be interested in reading about that      Anonymous

> It is of great interest to see how groups of aphasic patients work in a university setting and especially with out patients.      KPG