Catherine Steiner-Adair, Ed.D.

Dr. Catherine Steiner-Adair is an internationally recognized clinical psychologist, school consultant and instructor at Harvard Medical School. Based on her new book, The Big Disconnect, this presentation will reveal ways in which technology dramatically impacts how children of all ages grow and learn, and show parents how to engage the benefits of tech while reducing the risks it can pose at every stage of development.

Has tech activity replaced meaningful interaction in your family?

Does your family find it difficult to resist tech's pull?

What are families losing with technology's gains?

For answers to these questions and more, please join us in what promises to be an enlightening and empowering evening for all!
