Woman libber or not, you must see “She’s Beautiful When She’s Angry” opening today at The Nuart Theatre.

The documentary recaps the dedication of a few incredible women whose outcry for respect and equality was the beginning of a most important phase of their fight for recognition.

Mary Dore’s historical film, complete with humor and fascinating stories from gifted and outspoken women, catapulted their movement on to the national scene creating a long sought after niche in the work place and society as they exploited sexism and narcissistic male stupidity.

Subtly directed and produced, “She’s Beautiful When She’s Angry” is always interesting and informative.
