

THE PRESENTER

JASON MOORE

An award winning digital artist, Jason strives to help churches reach today's culture.

Known for his pioneering work in digital worship imagery, he is continually developing professional, highly emotive graphics, animation and video that is being emulated in churches nation wide.

Jason began his ministry at Ginghamburg UMC near Tipp City, Ohio where he was Animator/Illustrator. He went on to co-found Lumicon Digital Productions and eventually Midnight Oil Productions. In 2011, Jason began work with the Ohio River Valley District of the UMC as Media Specialist.

He has written 5 books, numerous articles and has been a featured speaker at seminars and conferences all over North America.

Jason is also an adjunct professor at Northwest Nazarene University.

MIDNIGHT OIL

Midnight Oil Productions is the ministry Jason co-founded in 2002. The goal of "MO" is to further the vision of worship for the digital age through ideas, resources, and seminars that work for local churches.

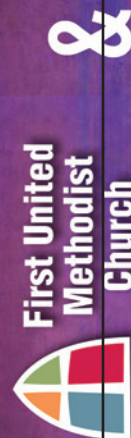

Each year, he reaches thousands of ministry leaders through teaching seminars, books, and resources.

CREATIVE WORSHIP

Experience real and memorable moments of worship. Creative Worship.

About the Seminar

If you've ever seen an excruciating PowerPoint presentation in worship then you know that for many churches new media has nothing to do with new energy and creativity in worship. Just jumping on the digital bandwagon does not necessarily create instant congregational renewal. That's because there's a big difference between technology and culture. We're still operating out of old, text-based mindsets when the world around us, and even our own congregations, have learned to live and think in image.

The real story in worship now is not the use of screens, but how God can use various forms of media to create powerful worship experiences. We invite you to come explore what happens next.

Who should attend?

Creative Worship is best experienced together, as a team, with other members of your worship and media design process. The seminar is helpful for a wide variety of people regardless of proficiency level, including pastors, worship leaders and producers, media and drama specialists, and more.

THE SCHEDULE

Session 1- Digital Storytellers: Worship in the Digital Age (9:30-11:15)

We in the church may have new media, but we have old mindsets. We are still stuck in an old world of textual analysis. If we can discover the power and potential of metaphor, we can transform worship. Includes sample services.

Session 2- Design Matters: The Art of Communicating the Gospel (11:35-12:00)

Creating powerful images for worship is not just for another congregation with more resources. Sit in on a "design master class" and discuss 6 principles for making images. Explore preaching with images, as well. The session finishes as we walk through a tutorial on building an image for worship.

Session 3- Taking Flight: Worship Design Teams That Work (12:30-2:30)

Many have attempted to design worship with a team of people, only to discover that it is difficult to form a team that actually works. We'll look at a series of obstacles that befall teams of sincere, hard working people, and explore through teaching and interactivity how to create worship design teams that take flight.

Session 4- The Wired Church: Technology, Resources and Next Steps (2:40-3:30)

The essential need-to-know information to establish, grow, and fortify your media ministry, including how to get started, resources, technical information, and more.
