

Social Media 101

Whether it's staying in touch with college friends on Facebook, following your favorite personalities and news sites on Twitter, professionally networking on LinkedIn or sharing photos on Instagram, for many of us Social Media has become an integrated and constant part of our daily lives. For the more computer savvy among us it may be hard to image a world where these tools aren't at our fingertips, but the fact is, new users sign up every day. Scott Clodfelter '85, a social media consultant, will provide an overview of some of the more popular social media applications, show beginners how to get started, and help more experienced users take advantage of the capabilities these ever-changing services provide.

Fencing

The modern Olympic sport of Fencing grew out of the training for dueling with sword in the eighteenth century. In our determination to teaching experientially, Fencing is offered today at CSC as part of a history course on European honor codes from the middle ages to the 19th century. So now take your turn at learning fencing this summer with fellow alums!

Walking Tour of C-SC History

Interested in hearing fascinating stories about Culver-Stockton College's founding, key figures, and campus buildings? Then join C-SC Associate Professor of History Scott Giltner on a lively Walking Tour of C-SC History. Learn the answers to several burning questions: Which University founder once shot and killed someone in a duel? Why was a College trustee held prisoner for a month in the Administration building? What role did the College and its founders play in the Civil War? How did we come to have a President named Oval Pirkey? Why has fire been so consistently unkind to the institution? Where did those old stone benches come from anyway? These and many more questions will be addressed during this fun and engaging session.

Brew Masters

Always wanted to brew your own beer at home, but not sure how to do it? Well this is the session for you. Join fellow alum, Dusty Little, as he shares his knowledge of home brewing. He will provide a full beer brewing demo throughout this course and sample of the final product. As part of the course we will taste test several types of beer from pale ales to a dark lager to learn about the additional beer crafting options.

Barbeque Smoking 101

Join Mark Hunsaker as he shows you how to prepare and trim Chicken, Ribs, Pork Butt and Brisket for your barbequing smoking taste. Mark will discuss injections for different types of meat, rubs to use, smoke times, different woods to use in a smoker, temperatures, cook times, and special tools to use while preparing your barbeque meal.

Write now!

Have you ever thought that you'd like to write a novel someday? Why not start today? The only thing that's stopping you is yourself. This class could be the nudge you need to move beyond your secret desire to holding a completed first draft.

There are as many different ways to write a novel as there are novelists and novelist wannabes. We'll discuss those as well as point of view and reference materials every writer needs. Your first attempt doesn't have to be great, but it could be a check mark on your "bucket list."

Bring your questions. Be fearless! Write on! Ramsay McNeill has a writer's blog on Goodreads.

Fine Arts & Business-Brand Yourself

A Fine Arts degree can provide you with career opportunities that offer both security and fulfillment. Studying the arts in college undoubtedly proves beneficial to your knowledge of the arts world, helping you to excel at a particular branch of art, but did you know that a fine arts degree can also help you advance in the business world?

Networking and interviewing skills can be sharpened through fine arts classes and degrees. Social media is heavily shaped by those with degrees in the fine arts. But did you know that businesses look for those 'creative, outside the box thinkers' too? Though competition is exceptionally fierce for such jobs--as qualified candidates outnumber positions available--a degree in Fine Arts may give your resume a special jolt that can improve your chances of landing a dream job. Concurrently, students profit from interpersonal and professional networking, volunteering and apprenticing. This class will approach the crucial aspect of building a personal "brand".

Latin Dancing

Description coming soon.....

Digital Photography

Description coming soon.....

Introduction to Watercolor

This class, taught by current C-SC Art Professor Debra Myers, will introduce to a variety of techniques and tools used in watercolor, including wet on wet, wet on dry, dry on wet, and dry on dry techniques. We will also experiment with salt, rubbing alcohol, flat and graded washes.

Introduction to Drawing

Drawing for everyone, even if you think you can't. Learn the first steps in drawing anything you can see. This is specifically geared to the non-drawer, but is a great review for all. Join instructor Pat Kerns, current C-SC Professor for this introductory course.

Estate Planning 101

Walk through the basics of estate planning with current C-SC Director of Planned Giving, Steve Miller. Participants will receive an estate planning workbook and begin the thought process of planning your legacy.