"Once I had gotten myself clean, there was yet another obstacle: the rejoining of society. Being ostracized for so long had taken its toll on me, and I once again found myself with achy hands from striking out at the concrete walls of stigma. My main goal in making this film is ending that ostracism of addicts and to lift that deadly stigma so that those who need help can seek it without shame." Director/Producer Sam Tarplin

Proceeds to Benefit the Cape Cod Community College Foundation - Recovery Student Scholarship
