Response to Intervention (RTI) Dos Cohort - Tiers of Behavior Intervention – Year 1

In an ongoing effort to address school site concerns regarding the social-emotional needs of our student population, and the District's non-compliance in the area of the over-representation of African American children identified for special education, the District is committed to continuing the roll out of the implementation of tiered levels of support to increase positive student behavior (Behavior RtI). This initiative is for all students.

Responsive Education for All Learners (REAL)

Students with diverse learning needs (Special Education or 504 eligible students with disabilities, English language learners, students with diverse temperaments, social emotional characteristics and other variables) require careful planning of lessons to allow these students to progress in core curriculum and to demonstrate standards mastery. This institute is composed of two days of initial training and skill practice, followed by a one day follow up to both showcase the on-site implementation of procedures to support these students and to receive additional training material.
