

An Invitation to the Second Annual Panel Debate sponsored by DMH Stallard

Clause 13, One Bill, Two Views

The balance between IP rights and the IP Bill

To date the economic impact of design on the UK economy has been undervalued but the forthcoming IP Bill offers an opportunity for real design reform for the 350,000 designers who contribute £33.5 billion to the UK economy.

Of particular interest is Clause 13, passed by the House of Lords, which will give designers parity with copyright and trade marks and criminal provisions for deliberate registered design infringement. ACID has also campaigned for unregistered designs to be included as the majority of UK (and EU) designers rely on unregistered design right.

The forthcoming IP Bill offers an opportunity for real design reform for the 350,000 designers who contribute £33.5 billion to the UK economy.

Speakers

Dids Macdonald Anti Copying in Design (ACID). and Vice Chair of the Alliance for IP - Introductions

Nick Kounoupias ACID Chief Legal Counsel and IP expert at DMH Stallard - Chair

Kieron Sharp Federation of Copyright Theft (FACT)

Lord Tim Clement-Jones All Party Parliamentary Group – IP

Jan Vleck Fellow and Council Member Chartered Society of Patent Attorneys (CIPA)

Sebastian Conran Designer

Details

Date: Thursday 7 November 2013

Venue: DMH Stallard,
6 New Street Square, New
Fetter Lane, London, EC4A 3BF

Time: 6.00 for 6.15 start - 7.15

Drinks and canapés

RSVP

To reserve a place please email
Belva.Howarth@acid.uk.com