

Bailey had a sad start. Found along a West Virginia road and taken to a kill shelter, she was only six weeks old. Luckily, Orphans of the Storm was able to rescue and save her life. At 8 weeks old she was adopted. Unfortunately she began to have medical problems and was returned to the shelter. She then came to me as a foster. Using the Hope Fund to cover her medical bills, Orphans took her to specialists and had additional fund raisers in order to fix her medical problems. After surgery and a long recovery, she is now a normal, mischievous, 1-year-old Labrador! Along the way, I fell in love and adopted her into my family of special needs dogs. We call that a "foster failure," if only failures in life would turn out so good!
